

Jeffrey Lambert

Chief Technology Officer

As BlueTie's Chief Technology Officer, Jeffrey Lambert is responsible for the Systems and Network Administration groups at BlueTie, as well as managing Quality Assurance and BlueTie's corporate IT computing infrastructure including the build out, maintenance and operations of BlueTie's data centers.

Mr. Lambert joined BlueTie as its first employee in March 1999 after working with Mr. Koretz at his previous company, Network Marketing International. The Systems and Network Administration groups are responsible for maintaining all of BlueTie's IT environments as well as improving the performance, scalability and reliability of BlueTie's suite of applications.
